

French Extension of Credit to Soviet Stymies U. S. Debt

WASHINGTON — Ambassador Troyanovsky of Soviet Russia came down to the State Department smiling buoyantly to discuss Soviet-United States debts.

After exactly four and one-half minutes in Secretary Hall's office, he came out looking less buoyant, shrugged his shoulders and went home.

Some time later, out walked Assistant Secretary Moore, lean, bald, smiling quizzically. "The Ambassador made a rather a brief call," newsmen remarked.

"About as brief as woman's love," observed Moore. And that apparently closed a chapter in Russian debt discussions.

Debt Strategy

The showdown behind the Russian debt impasse is that the Soviet no longer has any real inducement for making a settlement at the high figure asked by the State Department.

The real reason is France. On his way back to the United States, Ambassador Troyanovsky got word that France had given a huge block of credit to Russia with which to buy French goods. And no debt settlement was asked by France in return.

The chief reason Russia wanted a debt settlement was to establish a credit. Now that she has a credit in France, the inducement has evaporated.

Simultaneously Russia has secured other things from France, particularly a political and military understanding regarding their chief potential enemies — Japan and Germany.

At one time Roosevelt wanted Russian friendship because of the Japanese menace. Also Russia offered a vast market for American goods. But the State Department asked of Russia what no other country had obtained — recognition of Czarist debts. The Soviet was willing to pay part, but not to recognize these debts, even despite the default of other European debtors.

Now, due to State Department dawdling, it looks as if she would pay nothing.

Wrong Warrior

During the World Court fight one of its most vehement opponents was Senator Carey, Republican shepherd from Wyoming. One day in the middle of the fight his phone rang and a voice at the other end began talking in a familiar way about why he should vote for the World Court.

Carey listened for a moment, somewhat puzzled, then said: "Who is this speaking?" "This is Norman Davis," was the answer.

"Well who do you think you're talking to?" Senator Carey asked. "Senator Gerry of Rhode Island." That ended the conversation. Senator Carey did not change his vote.

By-Product

The World Court fight had a highly interesting by-product in the Senate. It was the rapprochement between two veteran thunderers—William E. Borah of Idaho and Hiram W. Johnson of California.

For many years it was a Senate "secret" that the two men, while publicly on speaking terms, privately were far from cordial.

They never clashed on the Senate floor because they see eye-to-eye on all major economic issues. But there was a distinct coolness between them which dated back to Borah's refusal to follow Theodore Roosevelt into the Bull Moose camp in 1912. Johnson was the late Republican President's running mate in that campaign.

Not even the historic League of Nations fight in the early '20s and the first World Court battle in the winter of 1925-26 brought them together. They fought shoulder-to-shoulder in leading the opposition.

AMRINE QUILTS, BALKING PLAN OF GOV. DAVEY

Efficient Head of London Prison Farm Refuses Director's Order

NAMED BY DONAHEY

Political Faith of Farm Employes Not Told

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5 — "As far as I am concerned W. F. Amrine is still superintendent of the London prison farm," Mrs. Margaret Allman of Canton, state welfare director, replied to questioners who sought to learn what action she will take on Amrine's resignation, mailed to her today.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5—Balking at the efforts of Gov. Martin L. Davey to list the politics of civil service employes in his proposed reorganization of state government, William F. Amrine, veteran superintendent of the London prison farm at Ohio penitentiary, today had resigned his position in a letter to Welfare Director Margaret Allman of Canton.

With his letter of resignation, Amrine also disclosed an interexchange of notes between himself and the welfare director which tended to show that Mrs. Allman, at the request of the governor's office, had insisted that he state his political faith.

Would Learn Politics

The resignation of Amrine followed by nine days the suspension of Warden P. E. Thomas of Ohio penitentiary and marked the first major repercussion of Gov. Davey's announced aim to learn the politics of every state employe although Civil Service Commission Chairman Ralph W. Emmons declared that he was of the opinion that Davey could not force civil service employes to reveal the names of the political parties to which they belonged.

Amrine, in resigning, declared: "I promised Governor Donahey, under whose administration I was promoted to my present position, that I would never consider politics in making appointments. I have kept that promise faithfully. I cannot, therefore, comply with your order to question my officers now as to their politics. "If I cannot have your support in this matter, I do not wish to embarrass you and, therefore, submit my resignation effective at your pleasure."

Amrine, who served as head of the farm for 15 years revealed that he had received a letter from

CASE COSTS STATE $1,000 EACH DAY

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 5—The trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby is costing the state of New Jersey $1,000 a day, it was revealed here today.

According to a statement made by Attorney General Wilentz last night the total expenditure for the trial alone thus far is $25,000.

"Our biggest items are hotel and stenographic fees," Wilentz said. "To date we have spent $25,000. Counting tomorrow the 25th day of the trial, it has cost us about $1,000 a day."

Wilentz added that he was standing by the state's steadfast theory that Hauptmann alone was involved in the crime.

"However, it would be no consolation to the present defendant if it should turn out that others were implicated," Wilentz said.

AGE PENSION COST FEARED

Morgenthau Proposes Four Point Plan to Revise Security Program

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Warning that old age pensions will ultimately cost over $4,000,000,000 a year, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau today urged drastic changes in the administration's economic security program.

He submitted his proposals to the house ways and means committee, which is considering the legislation embracing old age pensions, unemployment insurance, aid to dependent children and health service expansion.

Morgenthau proposed: 1. A new scale of contributory taxes and benefit payments in the compulsory contributory old age pension plan designed to put it on a sound financial basis without imposing heavy burdens upon future generations;

2. The treasury plan calls for a combined payroll and workers' earnings tax of 2 per cent for the first three years beginning in 1937 and rising to 6 per cent in 12 years. The bill starts the taxes at one per cent and reaches a maximum of five per cent in 20 years;

3. Transfer from the social insurance board to the treasury the function of issuing and selling voluntary annuity certificates;

4. Temporarily eliminating casual workers, agricultural labor and domestic servants from the compulsory contributory system.

GHOUL TO DIE FOR MURDER OF WHITES

CLEVELAND, Miss., Feb. 5—Convicted of the murder and mutilation of Mr. and Mrs. Aurelius R. Turner at a tense trial guarded by 500 militiamen, James Coyner, confessed Negro ghoul, today was under sentence to die on the gallows March 5.

Mob tension that threatened to flare into open violence and a possible lynching subsided today with the return of the convicted prisoner to Jackson, Miss., aboard a train guarded by troops.

While a force of guardsmen patrolled the courthouse a jury returned its verdict of guilty before Judge William A. Alcorn after only five minutes of deliberation last night.

The prisoner emitted a hideous laugh that rang through the courthouse when Judge Alcorn pronounced the death sentence.

CITY WITHOUT MONEY TO PAY ITS EMPLOYEES

Auditor Reports Funds on Hand Little More Than $1,300

NO CASH COMING IN

Electric Company's City Bill Overdue

Where the money is coming from to meet the Feb. 15 payroll for police, firemen, hospital employes, Memorial hall janitor and health board clerk amounting to about $1,000 is a matter council will have to iron out at its meeting Wednesday evening.

Miss Lillian Young, city auditor, has a little more than $1,300 in her hands at the present time with all salaries paid up to February 1. When Feb. 15 comes it is doubtful if there will be any money in the treasury at all. If Miss Young declines to pay current bills due it is possible there will be money on hand but these bills must be paid, it is pointed out.

SALARIES TO BE PAID

The payroll for police and firemen amounts to about $600 every two weeks. The hospital payroll runs from $300 to $400 depending upon the number of extra nurses required. Most of the time the hospital takes care of itself, however, with collections amply taking care of the payroll.

It is impossible to get an advance from the county since there is no money available, it was said. Collection of personal taxes does not begin until Feb. 15 with real estate collection to begin sometime in March.

LIGHT BILL OVERDUE

While officials are worrying where money will come from Miss Young revealed that there was not sufficient money on hand to pay the Southern Ohio Electric its bill of $915.64 due Feb. 1 for street lighting. Of this sum $333.64 is on an old bill which the council prior to the one now in office voted should be paid the electric company monthly. Another bill for a similar amount of $915.64 will be received March 1.

HOOVER APPOINTEE MUST GO TO JAIL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5— The "boys" in the big jailhouse were looking forward today to enjoying the company of a man who has associated with presidents—William P. MacCracken, Jr., assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aeronautics in the Hoover administration, and now an aviation company attorney.

The supreme court reversed an appellate court ruling and upheld the decision of the District of Columbia supreme court sustaining the senate's action in sentencing MacCracken to 10 days in jail for contempt. During the air mail investigation he was subpoenaed to surrender his files to the senate but two of his clients got access to these files and destroyed some of the letters. One of them already served his 10 day jail term.

SNOW HITS NORTH

CLEVELAND, Feb. 5—United States Weatherman Ralph Mize declared today that there is "no relief in sight" for northern Ohio which awoke to find itself buried under from three to six inches of snow.

The fall started about midnight and was general over the northern half of the state and especially heavy along the lake. Mize said. Nearly six inches had fallen at Cleveland at 9 a. m., with no sign of a "break" in the low, snow-laden clouds.

BAER RETIRES AS INSPECTOR; BOARDS MEET

Becomes Second Veteran to Be Placed on Pension Within Week

SERVED 55 YEARS

Council to Vote on Age Limit

John S. Baer, a member of the Circleville fire department for 55 years, was retired Tuesday as a result of action of the fire department pension board in its meeting Monday evening. His retirement pay of $50 monthly will begin as of February 1.

Mr. Baer follows Officer Thomas McManamy, a member of the police department for 32 years, on the pension list, the latter's retirement being announced last Friday.

Each veteran has been receiving $50 monthly. Mr. Baer as city fire inspector and Mr. McManamy as desk officer for the police department. Both jobs were created especially for these two men until council could form a retirement system.

TWO YEARS AS VOLUNTEER

Mr. Baer served for 53 years in the paid fire department, becoming a member of that organization when the first paid unit was formed. He had served for two years as a member of the volunteer company.

His inspection work, which he has done diligently and efficiently for five years, will be taken over by Chief Talmer Wise.

It has been indicated Police Chief W. H. Warner will retire March 1.

COUNCIL TO BALLOT

ON 24-35 AGE LIMIT

No change in the proposed ages for new appointees to police or fire department jobs was made when the two pension boards met Monday evening, their last meeting before council reads the ordinance for the third time Wednesday evening.

Under the plan proposed by the pension boards no one younger than 24 nor older than 35 can be appointed to either department. Efforts to pass the ordinance under suspension of rules have gone for naught since the ballot has stood three against, four in favor of the age limits as they now stand. A vote of four councilmen in favor of the ordinance will pass it, however, after third reading.

That is expected to occur Wednesday evening.

TO CALL EXAMINATION

It will be shortly after the ordinance is passed and signed by the mayor that the civil service commission will call an examination to fill eligible lists for police chief, patrolmen, fire chief and firemen.

'Ashamed to Talk of it,' Quintuplets' Mother Says In First Journey to U. S.

DETROIT, Feb. 5—"It makes me feel ashamed to talk about it," Mrs. Elzira Dionne, mother of the world famous Canadian quintuplet informed besieging reporters early today as her train halted in Detroit for a few minutes.

Mrs. Dionne, and her husband, Oliva, were enroute to Chicago to see the sights and to fulfill a ten-day stage engagement. It was only their second train ride they said. The first was in 1926 when they went to Ottawa on their honeymoon.

"I don't like to talk about it," Mrs. Dionne insisted, when the birth of the five babies was mentioned. "It makes me feel ashamed."

TALKS ONLY FRENCH

She speaks only French and answered questions through her cousin, Mrs. Joseph Rochan of North Bay, Ont., who is travelling with the party.

"Just before I left Sunday, I saw the babies," Mrs. Dionne said. "They're fine and healthy, except for a little fretfulness. Their teeth are coming in. They're pretty babies and I'm proud of them."

"I was as surprised as the rest of the world," she explained about their arrival. "I never thought I would have five. When I saw them I wondered what the neighbors would think."

FIRST TRIP TO U. S.

In Chicago, Mrs. Dionne said she planned to shop for a winter coat and go sight-seeing. It is the first trip to the United States for her and her husband.

Dionne did not have much to say. He hoped, though, that he would "get over to see the stockyards in Chicago."

NUDISTS ALARMED BY FEDERAL BILL

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 5—Fearful that the measure will drive their cult from existence, advocates of nudism came to the capitol today to oppose the McCall-Dooley bill making nudism a misdemeanor.

The measure, backed by the Decency league, is up for a public hearing before the assembly codes committee.

Attack on the bill was opened by the Rev. Isley Boone, representing the International Nudist conference. He declared that the measure seeks to make moral by legislation that which "is not immoral in fact."

TEACHERS OF CITY DISCUSS FAILURES

Virgil Cress In Charge of Program; Report Card Change Planned

The topic of the year, "Failures," was the keynote of the program for the meeting of city teachers Monday afternoon in the high school building. The meeting was one of a series which has been planned for the school year. It was presided over by Kenneth Lea, vice chairman of the association.

The program was in charge of Virgil Cress, head of the program committee, whose members are Miss Merle Reid, Miss Peggy Parks, Miss Margaret Brennan and Miss Helen Cellar.

It is planned at the close of the year to have recommendations drawn up by the association looking toward a decrease in the number of failures in the city schools.

A committee headed by Mr. Lea was named to study report cards and to recommend changes in the present report card system used in Circleville. The other members of this important committee are E. I. Gephart and Misses Marie Hamilton, Rebecca Gordon, Lucille Neuding and Mary Walters.

The program of Monday's meeting follows:

1. General Meaning of Failure, Miss Watson, read by Miss Rains.
2. Statistics on Failures in this System Last Year, Miss Walters and Mr. Gephart.
3. Attitude of Child Toward Failure, Miss Hamilton.
4. Grouping and Classification, Miss Buskirk.
5. The Underfed Child, Miss Kirkpatrick.

LINK STOLEN AUTO TO EBERT'S THEFT

A Chevrolet sedan owned by Mrs. Nellie P. Blue, 225 Brevoort-rd., Columbus, was found parked on N. Court-st. Monday, and reported to the sheriff's office. The car had apparently been stolen, then abandoned.

Officers are trying to link this car with theft of the Chevrolet of E. C. Ebert, believing that Columbus youths might have driven the Blue car here then taken Ebert's to go back to Columbus or to continue a trip.

PIPELINE PLANNED, ST. LOUIS, DETROIT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Tentative plans for a $50,000,000 natural gas pipeline system from the Texas panhandle to St. Louis and Detroit have been discussed with the PWA, Administrator Ickes revealed today.

R. B. Anderson, a representative of the governor of Texas, discussed the project "informally" with Ickes last week.

COL. SHERRILL TO AID DAVEY

Will Head Advisory Group to Study State Government

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5—Governor Martin L. Davey moved today to set his business experts' committee to work on an exhaustive study of state departments as Col. Clarence O. Sherrill of Cincinnati accepted the post as chairman of the special committee.

Although Col. Sherrill, former Cincinnati city manager, is in Chicago today to fill a speaking engagement, the governor prepared to call his group of business specialists together within a few days to outline a program of surveying operations of various state departments with a view toward possible greater efficiency and economies.

Col. Sherrill's acceptance of the chairmanship of the special committee was announced last evening by Davey.

Sherrill, George B. Chandler, secretary of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and Harold D. Sites, of the Ohio Manufacturers' association comprise a sub-committee which will set up the committee that will conduct the survey.

Gov. Davey expects to ask the legislature for authority to create an advisory board with power to hire and fire, he has explained, to carry out some of the recommendations his special committee may present.

SCHOOL LUNCHES EXEMPT FROM TAX

Tax On School Books to Continue Though, Tax Commission Rules

COLUMBUS Feb. 5 — Lunches served by school boards in school cafeterias are exempt from the sales tax today but the boards must continue to collect the three per cent tax on school books.

Reversing its earlier ruling holding all lunches in school cafeterias subject to the tax, the state commission last evening announced that cafeterias operated by boards of education will not be required to collect the tax, but the taxing body added that "this ruling has no application to cafeterias operated by Parent-Teacher associations or other groups."

Cafeterias operated by parochial schools and other charitable institutions of learning, where the proceeds go entirely for philanthropic purposes are also exempt, the commission ruled.

But book and supply stores, operated by school boards and other school organizations must collect the tax as any other retail establishment.

BRUNO'S TRIAL NEARS CLOSE; THREE TESTIFY

Dearth of Witnesses Shown as Police Head is Called to Stand

TO SUMMON AVIATOR

Cab Driver Reports Others in Cemetery

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 5 —

With the defense running low on witnesses, the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby was drawing toward an end today. Although the defense had not expected to rest before late Thursday, Court-observers would not be surprised if they ended their case soon.

How many rebuttal witnesses the state will call after the defense rests was problematical. At any rate the prosecution is not expected to take more than two days to clean up the loose ends of the case. One of the state's important rebuttal witnesses will be Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the slain baby, who will return to the stand to refute the defense theory and contention that the kidnapping was an "inside job."

CALLED SCHWARTZKOPF

There was talk today that the defense had fifteen more witnesses. But it was only talk. The dearth of defense witnesses was apparent yesterday afternoon when Edward J. Reilly, chief counsel for the defense, looked around and suddenly found he had none available. In the crisis, the defense took a gamble and called Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, in charge of the Lindbergh case from the beginning, as a witness for Hauptmann.

Philip Moses, an eccentric taxi-cab driver from the Bronx, came to the stand after Justice Thomas Trenchard removed Col. Schwarzkopf of a subpoena served upon him by the defense ordering him to produce various records of the kidnapping investigation, including photographs of the "kidnap ladder" and Schwarzkopf's statements to the press.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz said he would produce all "material" records of the investigation, excluding only the press statements. It was indicated there would be further legal argument on this point.

Moses, creating much laughter in the courtroom, told of seeing several men in St. Raymond's cemetery the night Hauptmann was supposed to have received the $50,000 ransom money from Dr. John F. Condon, mediator.

After a few questions about the Bronx, Wilentz excused the witness.

Mrs. Maria Mueller, niece of Mrs. Anna Hauptmann followed Moses to the stand.

She supported Bruno's alibi in November 26, 1933 when he was said to have passed a ransom note at a theatre. He said he was at a party.

EFFORT BLOCKED

An effort of the defense to prove the memory of Mrs. Barr, state's witness and cashier at the theatre, was not consistent failed when objections of Wilentz to questions asked Joseph J. Tardell, of New York, were sustained. The witness was finally withdrawn.

CLAYPOOL BACKS PIKETON JUDGE

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5—Utility support for all the prospective candidates who rumor places in line for appointment to the Ohio Public Utilities Commission post of Frank W. Geiger of Springfield, was seen today.

The appointee must be a Republican, since the other two members of the commission are Democrats, and each of those prominently mentioned for the vacancy is reported to be backed by influential utility interests.

Judge George Rittenour of Piketon is mentioned for the post and he is reputed to be supported by Sam MacCracken, Columbus, general manager of the Ohio Power company and Garrett Claypool of Chillicothe, counsel for Columbia Gas and Electric and American Gas and Electric companies.

E. C. Corn of Ironton, former common pleas judge, is said to have the backing of Frank Mauller of Chillicothe, of the Ohio Power company and D. C. Pemberton, Columbus lobbyist for the Ohio Railroad association.

NEEDED LEGISLATION

MOTORISTS of Ohio are much interested in pending legislation provided that all drivers of motor vehicles be required to have a license from the state, without which they will be forbidden to drive. Ohio has long needed this type of motor traffic regulation and it seems that at last we are to have it.

Applicants for license must pass an examination to determine whether they are mentally and physically fit and of good moral character. It is presumed that if such a law is properly enforced the highways will be freed of one of the greatest menaces to life and property—the irresponsible and morally unfit driver of motor vehicles.

Under present regulations, a man who operates a steam engine in industry must pass an examination as to his physical and mechanical qualifications as a measure of safety to the public in general, yet there are no restrictions placed on motor vehicle drivers. Anyone may get behind the steering wheel of his own car or a borrowed car and take to the state's busy highway's no matter if he be deaf, dumb, blind, physically and mentally deficient, without anyone questioning his right or his ability to drive. It would be no hardship for capable individuals to procure a drivers' license or permit and the inefficient or incapable would be weeded out in the licensing process.

In many adjoining and nearby states all operators of motor vehicles must have a permit to drive. In cases of traffic mishaps the first thing "the law" says is "Let's take a look at your drivers' license." If you have one, well and good. If you don't—that's another story.

In our opinion, some sort of a drivers' license law is most necessary for the promotion of safety and the reduction of traffic hazards.

USES OF ANTARTICA

PERSONS who don't like the cold weather and who would just as soon stay at home anyhow have inquired, in the manner peculiar to the provincial and the reactionary, what, if any, is the use of Admiral Byrd's 200,000 square miles of Antarctica, recently annexed to the United States for the greater glory of our empire. The inquiry apparently has been delivered with such force that it has penetrated to the good admiral in his distant outpost and, through the New York Times, he has attempted to answer it.

It seems that there are 22 uses of the discovery, and that the geographical use is only one of them. Among the other subjects being studied by the hardy pioneers of Marie Byrd Land, are these, as well: Astronomy, meteorology, physical oceanography, vertebrate and invertebrate zoology, mammalogy, physiology, glaciology, stratigraphy, petrography, paleontology, tectonic and economic geology, geophysics, physical geography, cartography, physical and terrestrial magnetism, bacteriology and botany.

To them, as suggested the other day by an Englishman in Australia, might be added the potentialities of the new territory as a summer resort, abounding in winter sports. For all the uses to which the land may be put considerable persons will be thankful. They would hate to think that Admiral Byrd and his stout company spent so long a time in so frigid a place for nothing.

HORRIBLE EXAMPLE

RANKLIN D. Roosevelt, Jr., has reached a belated decision. He says he will not again be seen in a court room on a charge arising from his use of his automobile. This is good news for the traveling public. Young Roosevelt is no less a menace to safety as the son of the president of the United States than he would be as the son of the town crier of Painted Post, Nevada.

During the last two and a half years he has been arrested four times for speeding. Last March he struck a sixty-year-old woman in Boston. In April he was fined $20 for having out-of-the-state plates on an automobile without permission of the state authorities. On New Year's morning, at Wayne, Pa., his car skidded and struck another car. In Orange, Conn., last week he was fined $10 and costs on a speeding charge.

The record establishes the fact that young Roosevelt belongs to that reckless and irresponsible class of motorists who should be denied the use of the highways. Wrecked cars and sudden death lie in their wake. Unless he adheres to his determination to reform, his license should be revoked.

Only 5,000 Americans competed in the contest for the biggest lar in the United States, a remarkably small field, all things considered.

A deb, whose coming out used to run as high as $80,000, can be launched this winter for $5,000, making it practically a hard times social.

It is often through circuitous ways that justice scores at least an approach to a triumph. Shelbyville, Tenn., mobs burned the court house a short time ago and now have to pay for a new one.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Nine Stoutsville citizens were guests at a meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce. Improvement of the Circleville-Stoutsville road was among the important topics discussed.

The grocery store of H. O. Eveland, S. Court-st, was burglarized and large quantities of merchandise stolen.

Frank S. Gordon, secretary of the Forest Cemetery association, reported that 8,040 interments had been made. The cemetery had its first interment in July, 1858. The association was organized July 30, 1857. The first interment was Mrs. Crissie Darst.

15 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Wolf, former residents of Stoutsville, died within a few hours of each other at New Carlisle, Pa., their deaths being due to influenza. Burial was made at Stoutsville.

Noah Devault died at his home in Laureville within a few hours after being kicked by a horse.

A fox drive covering 40 square miles and centering at Tarlton netted three foxes, many animals escaping through the lines. Two thousand men took part in the chase. One pelt sold for $134.

25 YEARS AGO

Pickaway Centennial association selected members of a large number of committees to complete plans for the celebration October 2, 3, 4 and 5, followed by the annual Pumpkin show.

The Men's Social club of the Methodist church entertained with a ground hog supper in the social rooms of the new church.

Seventy-one applicants took the examinations for census enumerators at the court house. Ten of the number were women.

Little Sister

CHAPTER 34

ADDISON WAS tired and panting by the time Lella had guided him to Gaetano's little shop.

"I don't quite know what you plan doing," she said.

"Make Bet stop, of course," he said, and she remembered that so far he had seen little but Bet's docile side.

She agreed with him in her heart that the less Bet was comradely with Gaetano's sort the better it would be for all concerned, but she expected little from this sortie. Or perhaps not with this money—perhaps not.

It wouldn't do much good—perhaps Bet and Addison might break up over Gaetano. Perhaps Orton in that case would know how to get Aunt Minnie's money back. Wasn't there something called "undue influence" or couldn't some appeal be made to his father?

Unwitting of these dark ideas against him, Addison looked up at her with the trustful expression of a dog who wants to be told where to run next.

"What... what would you advise me to say to Bet?" he asked wistfully, drawing a handkerchief across his flushed forehead and stopping for breath.

"I have been trying to find out what to say to Bet for a good many years," said her sister dryly. "So far nothing has been much use."

She couldn't help, suddenly, being sorry for him. There was a sort of lost-dogness about him after all.

Under his stiff assertive little ways, she began to see why Aunt Minnie was so fond of him. At least he wasn't another villain. "Here's the shop."

They went in, rather hesitantly. For a moment the change from the sharp bright April weather, to the darkness of the place made Lella unable to see much of anything except the two shoe-shining throngs.

Then she made out that the place was empty. On one side, on the little counter, lay Bet's unmistakable scuffed black ties among a litter of other shoes. But no Bet. Lella's heart turned over, and she supposed Addison's did too, for he sat suddenly down on the step of the throne.

Then an odd silence was broken by a woman's shrill voice, and Lella, to her relief, heard Bet's voice also, trying to talk her down. Gaetano's accented bass broke in from time to time.

Well, if there was another woman there, at least Bet couldn't be flirted with offensively by Gaetano. Lella walked to the door behind which were Gaetano's living quarters, and pushed it open.

Bet was there, all right. But she was not discussing anything whatever with Gaetano. Instead, she was penned in a corner by the oak radio. Gaetano, swartly, snuggled, darkly, against the wall with an expression partly uneasy and partly complacent.

The person doing the penning was an Italian woman who, before she put on weight, had been pretty, and was probably 25 or so, because she looked 30 by American standards.

She was beautiful, shrilly, volubly. Addison stepped back and stared, but Lella went quietly in. After all, she had had practice.

"I am looking for my sister," she said.

"My sister? What sister?" asked Gaetano. "I am a woman who knows about men. And if I had known about Gaetano a little sooner I would never have stayed in New York helping my sister, because Gaetano said he hadn't money enough to look after me yet."

He had heard. They say, he make love to everybody out here, and sure enough, the first morning I came here is this girl, and they are talking together as if they'd known each other since they were babies. And he's holding her hand—"

"I was telling him I was in love with another man!" said Bet shrilly.

"You talked about love. I know," heard you. I don't believe in no other man. I said the practical Mrs. Gaetano. "I heard about you, and about the girl in the candy store."

"What... what would you advise me to say to Bet?"

said quietly, but in a voice which carried. "Betty, as you seem to have left your ties to be mended, I think you'd better come home. And you probably left the money turned on."

Bet, against the wall, looked relieved.

"All right," she said meekly.

The Italian woman turned around to Lella.

"She will not go so fast," she said furiously. "I have more to say to her!"

"Just what does this mean?" said Lella, as sternly as she could manage.

The two Italians responded mechanically to the note of authority.

"My wife is a crazy idiot," said Gaetano very crossly. This was something new, and also it explained. Gaetano had never mentioned his possession of a wife before.

But what had Bet been doing?

"I'm not a crazy idiot," said Mrs. Gaetano. "I am a woman who knows about men. And if I had known about Gaetano a little sooner I would never have stayed in New York helping my sister, because Gaetano said he hadn't money enough to look after me yet."

Leads Ford . . .

29,256 in Truck Sales

4,378 in Car Sales

33,634 TOTAL LEAD

Recent Predictions that Chevrolet would be returned the leader in 1934 passenger car registrations as well as commercial car titling were confirmed February 1 when final returns for the year were completed. These returns were compiled by the R. L. Polk & Co.

IN view of the late start which Chevrolet suffered in 1934 due to labor troubles and other delays, the company was unable to overcome the Ford lead in the passenger car field until the last month of the year, although the combined car and truck sales by Chevrolet has exceeded the Ford combined total some months earlier.

DURING December Chevrolet completely wiped out the Ford lead by registering 25,741 against Ford's 14,056 and topped the lead for the entire year in the passenger car field by a margin of 4378 units. In combined passenger car and truck sales Chevrolet piled up a total of 692,440 against Ford's 658,806 giving a margin in favor of Chevrolet of 33,634 cars and trucks.

PATTERN 5299

Spring isn't much more than around the corner and with its approach every woman's thoughts turn to dress. Be prepared for the first chirp of the robin, and crochet yourself these accessories now. Yes, Fashion is declaring her preference for crochet for spring even more loudly than she did for winter. This hat is one of those that she particularly favors; it suits so many personalities and — what's important to the needlewoman — is easily made. The trim is enhanced by the double row of popcorns that edge it. And what is a hat without a matching accessory? So Alice Brooks, who has designed these exclusive models, planned this purse to go with it. A center panel of popcorns contrasts with the plainer ones at the sides. And the bag is one of those that is roomy without being bulky.

In pattern 5299 you will find complete instructions for making the set shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches needed; material requirements, and color arrangements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main St., Circleville, Ohio.

Only One Bewhiskered Player On Team As Large Crowd Watches Contest

The House of David brought a nondescript quintet to Circleville Monday evening to combat the Athletic club but at that lost by only 31-28.

The team was by far the worst House of David aggregation ever put on the local court. A wreck Sunday night after a game in Indiana was blamed. Only one member of the regular team, Machek, who played forward, was in the lineup. The others could play some basketball, especially Brown, No. 5, a forward, who was high point man. He was reputed to have been an all-state man in Kentucky last year.

The game, although fairly close, was disappointing to the large crowd which witnessed it. The crowd was the best of the year.

RALLY AT CLOSE

The Club led through practically all the game after the first period which ended 8-7 for the invaders. The local outfit with Eve Merriam leading the scoring took a 15-10 margin at the half which was increased to 27-18 at the three-quarter pole. The pseudo House of David team rallied in the final period to bring the score too close for comfort but Carl Purcell and Eve Merriam dropped goals through the hoop to clinch the ball game.

The ball handling of Machek was outstanding and many wandered just what would have happened had all five of the bearded boys been here. A couple of years ago the House of David gave the Club a nice going over.

Barnes and Merriam topped the Club scorers with 12 and nine, respectively, while Brown, whose right name was probably Olechewski or something of that sort, tallied 15.

Johnny Heiskell worked the game.

COUNTY FARMER BAGS $2 CROW

W. B. Grabill of near Darbyville today possessed $2 in prize money and the added distinction of killing the first prize crow in the state conservation division's statewide crow-killing campaign.

The bird was brought down by the Pickaway-co farmer bore a band No. 49-C. The bird had been numbered and released through the division of conservation here as one of a flock of tagged birds.

The bands are worth from $1 to $25 when returned to the conservation department. Grabill was the first to bring down one of the prize birds and he redeemed the tag at the conservation offices here.

RECORD CROWD TO SEE CHILlicothe MEET WATERLOO 5

Chillicothe high school gymnasium is expected to be sold out Friday evening when the Waterloo Wonder team plays the varsity there. It is reported that all available seats have been sold.

Waterloo easily defeated Ashville a couple of weeks ago and many from here had hoped to see the Wonders in action against a stronger team. Chillicothe, beaten 17-1 by Greenfield last week, will be another victim of the Waterloo club.

BISHOPS FACE MIAMI'S FIVE

Hope to Add to Lead; Detrick Confident After Xavier Defeat

By Gilson Wright
DELAWARE, Feb. 5.—Further fireworks will be displayed in Buckeye conference basketball this week when the second round of play begins Wednesday night.

At that time Ohio Wesleyan, the undefeated leader, will attempt to increase its margin by defeating Miami in a game scheduled at Edwards gymnasium, Delaware. On the same night Marshall will travel to Athens to meet Ohio university.

Two more games that will count in the standings are on the card for Saturday night when Ohio Wesleyan will meet Marshall at Huntington, W. Va., and Cincinnati will play Miami at Oxford.

Xavier's 29 to 26 victory over Ohio Wesleyan broke the Bishops' winning streak which had extended to nine games, but in the opinion of Coach Ray Detrick the loss will help Ohio Wesleyan in its coming Buckeye conference games.

"A winning streak hurts a team because it plays under pressure. When the pressure is lifted, the boys can relax and play their usual game," Detrick said Tuesday. "I would rather lose a non-conference game than one that counts in the final championship ratings."

Conference basketball fans are keeping an eye on the coming return game between Cincinnati, now in second place, and Ohio at Athens next Tuesday night, Feb. 12. Cincinnati won on its own field, 43 to 28. Another Cincinnati victory would kill Ohio's championship hopes, while an Ohio win would do no good to Cincinnati's chances.

Present standings:
TEAMS W L Pct
Ohio Wesleyan 4 0 1.000
Cincinnati 3 1 .750
Ohio 2 2 .500
Marshall 0 3 .000
Miami 0 3 .000

MEET IN WEST

BERKELEY, Cal., Feb. 5.—The National Collegiate Athletic association track and field championships will be held at Edwards field at the University of California in June, it was announced today.

William Monahan, graduate manager, declared that California already has accepted an invitation to hold the meet here.

The invitation was tendered some time ago by Major John L. Griffith, N. C. A. A. athletic commissioner.

A definite date for the championships remains to be set. Two dates are being considered, the choice to be made between June 14, 15 and June 21, 22.

About This And That BY THE SECOND GUESSER

GRADUALLY SLIPPING

The old C. A. C. team, which defeated some of the best basketball aggregations in Ohio, is just about shot—Dick Robinson is through, Judy Gordon admitted Monday evening that it was his last game, George Vlerbome is ill and will probably play no more basketball, Art Steele is making a slow recovery from pneumonia and Boyce Parks is on the downgrade. All have played mighty good basketball for a long while but, rather time is gradually creeping up—Eve Merriam is the only member of the aggregation which played seven, eight and nine years ago who now seems able to play up to the form he showed then, and he has lost a lot of speed on the defense.

"SCHOOL BOOSTER"

The following letter was received at the sports desk this morning from a writer who terms himself "A sports and school booster":

"There are no activities for our high school youths in the summer. You older folks practically monopolize "much" ball. The boys have nothing but cigarette smoking and other such poor pastime equipment. Some high school youths are trying to organize a "hard" baseball team at school this spring. Many boys are interested in it and we have fine material for the sport.

"Maybe the board of education and a local club might be interested. How about it? It would be one of the best things that would have happened around here in a long while."

Big baseball peevish from little wisecracks grow. And pennants sometimes depend more on peace than base hits. Also, it takes only a little wrench to wreck a fine baseball machine.

A little difference between Manager Bill Terry and Pitcher Carl Hubbell undoubtedly helped to halt the Giants in their march toward the National league final. The success this year of the Cleveland Indians, picked by many to win the American league pennant, may hang upon friendly relations between Manager Walter Johnson and the club's pitchers, notably Oral Hildebrand.

How to Pitch to Ruth

It will be remembered that the Big Train and the combative young slabster from Indiana became involved in a battle last year that finally led to Hildy's suspension for insubordination. The difference all started innocently enough.

Hildebrand was pitching to a certain batsman in a way Walter did not like. The Big Train, a student of big league batters for 30 years, felt qualified to correct the recruit's method. When Hildebrand returned to the bench Johnson talked to him about it.

The youngster talked right back to the boss, and had the last word which, I am told, was:

"And suppose Babe Ruth is up there and you have three and two on him. How do you pitch to him—over the plate, or under it?"

The serious Johnson reddened, and it is reported the "mad" between the two started right there. Hubbell and Terry were peeved at each other because the badly overworked Hubbell told a baseball writer he was tired of working every day, and Terry commented: "This is a poor time for him to get tired."

PANTHERS VICTORS OVER TARTLTON FIVE

A comedy of misplays, poor officiating and what-not featured the game between the Pickaway Panthers and Tartlton All-Stars, a preliminary Monday evening. Pickaway finally won 9-7.

The game showed plainly what can happen after good basketball players are out of practice a couple of years. Many of the names in the two lineups were outstanding in high school circles a couple of years ago, but they were short of wind, had lost their eyes for the basket, etc.

OHIOANS FAIL TO KEEP LEAD

Purdue Comes From Behind In Last Minute to Win 42-41 Thriller

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 5.—Ohio State university's surprising cage team blew a 15 point lead it held at halftime to go down to a 42-41 defeat at the hands of Purdue, today Big Ten leader.

The Buckeyes displayed a surprising attack in the first half to score 32 points but Bob Kessler, forward, led a spirited attack in the second half to slash the lead, later to tie and then to permit Downey, a guard, to score a free throw to win the ball game in the last minute.

Ohio has now won four games and lost three.

Loss of Red Wilson, high scoring forward, and Bill Beithner, captain and guard, on personal fouls hurt the Buckeye chances for victory.

Wilson scored 13 points, Whitlinger counted 10 and Earl Thomas, at center, got nine while Kessler, Purdue flash who was called upon to come through when Norm Cottom, high scoring co-captain, was stopped, tallied 20 points.

Minnesota had too many guns for Chicago and despite Bill Haarlow's 15 points won 35-26 at Minneapolis, Monday evening.

EMERY CLUB LOSES FAST 18-17 FRAY

A left-handed negro named Evans proved a pain in the neck to the Emery club in a preliminary Monday evening when the South A. C., Columbus, won in a fast and interesting 18-17 game.

Evans shot from any position and with either hand to score 10 of his team's 18 points.

Friece and Frank did most of the Emery club scoring with seven and six.

SCHMIDT BEGINS INDOOR PRACTICE

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—Training his squad for the far-distant 1935 football season, Coach Francis Schmidt of Ohio State university today had started indoor practice for the football squad.

The winter drills, held in the gymnasium, will continue for four weeks and give way to outdoor spring practice for a six-week period starting early in March.

An innovation on the Buck campus, the winter drills are being staged to teach rudiments of the game. Most of the lettermen of last year's squad were kept from the sessions by participation in other sports or scholastic examinations.

Capt. Gomer Jones and Trevor Rees, end, were among those who turned out, however. Promising freshman players who answered the call included Warren Christinger, Springfield and Tom Monahan of Lohain, a brother of former Captain Regis Monahan.

STAGG AIDS SON IN PLEA FOR JOB

KENT, Feb. 5.—Alonzo Stagg, veteran football coach, was to come to Kent today to confer with officials of Kent State college concerning his son's chances of obtaining the "wide-open" job of chief grid mentor at the school.

Alonzo Jr., one of 40 candidates for the Kent position, formerly was a star quarterback on the University of Chicago eleven.

BANK REPORTS SHOW CONFIDENCE

SQUIRE FILES FIRST REPORT

Steady Increase In Volume of Business During 1934 is Disclosed

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—Indisputable evidence that Ohio's banks have recaptured the public confidence, that general business conditions are definitely improved and that the economic outlook for 1935 is decidedly reassuring is indicated by the state bank call reports of Dec. 31, 1934, Samuel H. Squire, new superintendent of banks of Ohio, declared in his first official statement issued today.

Throughout 1934, Squire said, the resources and deposits of Ohio's banks rose steadily in volume, showing substantial gains for the first time in more than five years. The scope and value of their banking service increased appreciably during the past year and a better understanding of banks and their purposes has been effected, he said. Squire added that stimulation in business has enhanced banking stabilization.

"Under readjustments made since the national bank holiday of 1933, the people have full faith that funds deposited in banks are absolutely safe and they unhesitatingly commit their money to the care of these institutions," Squire said. "Ohio's banks, conservatively managed, are giving serious consideration to the business problems of the day with the intention of doing everything possible to aid in their solution."

Total resources of all banks under state supervision, 466 in number, 13 being unlicensed banks, on Dec. 31, 1934, were $1,157,587,466, an increase of $32,259,391, since the call of Oct. 2, 1934, and an increased of $96,952,500 since Dec. 30, 1933.

Total deposits of these banks on Dec. 31, 1934, were $965,041,004, an increase of $34,540,439 since Oct. 2, 1934, and an increase of $90,453,423 since Dec. 30, 1933.

Classified, the totals reported for deposits of all state banks were:

Individual deposits, $277,501,043, increases of $28,708,913 and $54,509,087, respectively; savings deposits, $498,645,796, increases of $14,784,154 and $41,417,874 respectively; time certificates, $48,613,595, decreases of $9,859 and $18,090,184 respectively; "all other deposits," $140,280,570, a decrease of $8,942,769 since Oct. 2, 1934 and an increase of $12,616,646 since Dec. 30, 1933.

The reduction in time certificates of deposit, Squire said, may be explained to a material extent by the transfer of such deposits to other deposit accounts.

Loans and discounts totaled $475,970,660, decreases of $7,508,227 and $64,872,571 respectively. Cash and reserve totaled $179,316,045, increases of $17,020,527 and $40,049,848 respectively. Combined capital totaled $64,282,395, a decrease of $115,000 since Oct. 2, 1934, and a decrease of $2,466,305 since Dec. 30, 1933. The capital stock decrease noted is due to the fact there were 37 fewer banks at the close of 1934 than at the beginning of the year.

UP TO POULSON

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—Governor Davey said again today that Francis Poulson is the only man in Ohio who can "deliver a job." The governor warned Ohioans who have been paying money to some persons who claim they control and can obtain positions.

GOOD PROGRAM AT PINELAWN FARM

More than 100 poultrymen from Pickaway and adjoining counties enjoyed an interesting program at a chick raising school at Pinelawn Poultry Farm, Monday night, as guests of the management. The school was arranged by George Bowers, owner of the farm, for the benefit of the 1935 patrons of the hatchery.

The program included an inspection of the plant, an explanation of the purpose of the school by Mr. Bowers, and a splendid musical program by W. H. Hudson, assistant manager. Addresses were made by G. S. Vickers, field manager of the Ohio Poultry Improvement association; E. Grossman, of Grove City; Dr. J. T. Burris, of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, Reynoldsburg; and E. W. Millar, Ashville, followed by a round-table discussion on topics of interest to poultry raisers.

3 JAILED FOR CHICKEN THEFT

Frank Jester, 21, Route 1, Williamsport, Irvin Colburn, R. F. D., Williamsport, and Schuyler Jester, 18, Chillicothe, Route 1, are being held in the Ross-co jail for investigation in connection with alleged theft of 30 chickens from the Clarence Norris place, near Pennyroyal, Ross-co, Saturday night. The men were arrested by Sheriff Vincent and Deputy Lowery Sunday afternoon after Frank Jester sold seven chickens at Williamsport.

Colburn claims the chickens sold belonged to him and that others at his place are his property and are not part of the Norris flock. However, Sheriff Vincent and Deputy Lowery will attempt to prove the home locality of the chickens by taking them to the neighborhood adjoining the hen house. If the chickens go to roost in the accustomed place for the Norris flock, charges may result against the three men.

Frank Jester and Colburn were arrested at Colburn's place. Schuyler Jester was arrested at the Norris farm, in the Pennyroyal neighborhood.

PREACHER'S SON WINS OHIO HONOR

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—David Illingworth, 17-year-old son of a Johnstown pastor, today had won the Ohio Prince of Peace contest and a four year scholarship. A $200 cash award also went to Illingworth. The final contest of the state wide competition was held at the Ohio Pastors' convention Monday. Second place went to Ann Harding, 16, Bellefontaine. A $100 cash award and two-year scholarship went to Miss Harding.

AMRINE QUILTS

Mrs. Allman on January 29, which said in part:

"We have received a request from the governor's office for the following information concerning every employee in your institution, including yourself: Name, home, address, position, salary, politics, length of service, civil service—if or no."

According to Amrine, he sent the requested information to Mrs. Allman with the exception of the notations of the politics of the employees on the farm. In his letter to the welfare director, he said:

"Have omitted the politics of all except myself as all are under civil service and I have never considered politics in hiring or discharging anyone."

Received Second Note

He claimed he received still another letter from Mrs. Allman, which read in part:

"With reference to the report, I regret that it is necessary for me to return it to you inasmuch as the first item on the list, politics, was not filled out."

Although Amrine himself is under civil service, as are the 80 guards under his jurisdiction, he placed his letter of resignation in the mails and it should have reached Mrs. Allman today, he said.

Amrine had been an employee in the state's penal system since 1902. He started as a teacher at Mansfield reformatory, two years before Warden Thomas. After Thomas was appointed as warden by former Governor Cox, he selected Amrine as a deputy warden in charge of the prison farm.

Later, in 1925, when the farm was made a separate institution, Amrine was given the post of superintendent at the behest of former Governor A. V. Donahey.

CHEVROLET FIRST IN REGISTRATION

Passenger and commercial car registrations for the year 1934, which have just been compiled place Chevrolet at the top of the list, leading Ford in the final count by a margin of 33,634 cars.

These returns, compiled by R. L. Polk & Co., show new passenger car registrations in the United States during 1934 reached a total of 1,888,557 as compared with 1,493,794 in 1933, and truck registrations to the total of 493,941 as compared with 245,869 in 1933.

Of the passenger cars registered, Chevrolet leads with 543,906; Ford second with 530,528; Plymouth third with 302,557.

In the combined passenger car and truck sales for the year Chevrolet piled up a total of 692,440 against Ford's 658,806, giving a margin in favor of Chevrolet of 33,634 cars and trucks.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout troop No. 3 held its weekly meeting at Memorial hall, Friday. The meeting opened with the flag service. We chose our favorite songs to sing followed by a game.

"The Happy Hunters" patrol gave a short program for the rest of the troop, which was enjoyed and appreciated by all. We then made more plans for our Valentine party to be held sometime near Valentine's Day. The decorating committee will be Betty Betz, Norma Jean Brown and Sara Mae Delong.

The meeting closed with taps and the radio handclasp.
GAIL DAUENHAUER, Scribe

Girl Scout troop No. 4 held its regular meeting Friday afternoon, in the basement of the Presbyterian church. An interesting handicraft was taken up. Different colored papers pasted on black jars were found very effective. We tried a new song called "Camels" and had quite a time with the two parts.

During the business part of the meeting, the motion was made and passed to buy the Second Class badges with money from our treasury. A game, Human Croquet, was enjoyed by all. In patrol corners we worked more on the handicraft. We closed with the friendship circle and taps.

Scribe, Ruth Robinson.

In Kennamer Case

Preston Cochrane

An important witness in the trial of Phil Kennamer, of Tulsa, Okla., which begins at Pawnee, Okla., for the slaying of John Gorrell, Feb. 11, is Preston Cochrane, above, son of an oil company attorney. The state expects Cochrane to testify that Kennamer talked with him concerning plans for extortion plots and easy money.

Washington Merry-go-round

but there was no change in their personal relations.

What these two struggles and more than two decades of Senate association failed to accomplish, last week's Court fight brought about.

Faced with a situation in which they seemed leaders of a lost cause, the two battle-scarred warriors dropped their old feud and looked arms.

A surprised Senate saw them holding frequent conferences and closely attending one another's rhetorical attacks.

Aid when the fight was over they rushed into a warm embrace, generously attributing to the other chief credit for the unexpected victory.

Checked

Senator Carter Glass's undercover feud with the Administration over the appointment of Marriner S. Eccles as Governor of the Federal Reserve Board is getting interesting.

The aged Virginia die-hard strongly disapproves of the young, liberal Utahian. And when the session opened Glass quietly approached several Republican members of the Senate Banking Committee, among them Jim Couzens, on the proposition of joining him in a fight against Eccles' confirmation.

But Glass got no comfort from them.

They made it clear they had no intention of helping him pull his chestnuts out of the fire.

Carter then resorted to another maneuver.

When Eccles' name came before the Banking Committee he had it referred to a subcommittee of which he is chairman. With him on this committee were Senators Bulkley, Ohio, and McAdoo, California, both Old Guards.

The situation seemed completely in Carter's hands.

He was in a position to hold up action on the appointment and by keeping Eccles and the Administration in the uneasy seat use their discomfiture as a club to oppose their forthcoming bill to strengthen on the Government's control over the Federal Reserve System.

But Carter did not reckon with Senator Jimmy Byrnes.

That wily South Carolinian, the President's Senatorial liaison man, is also a member of the Banking Committee and headed a subcommittee.

When Carter seized control of

Eccles' appointment, Jimmy quietly had his own subcommittee abolished and he and its Administration supporters made members of Carter's group.

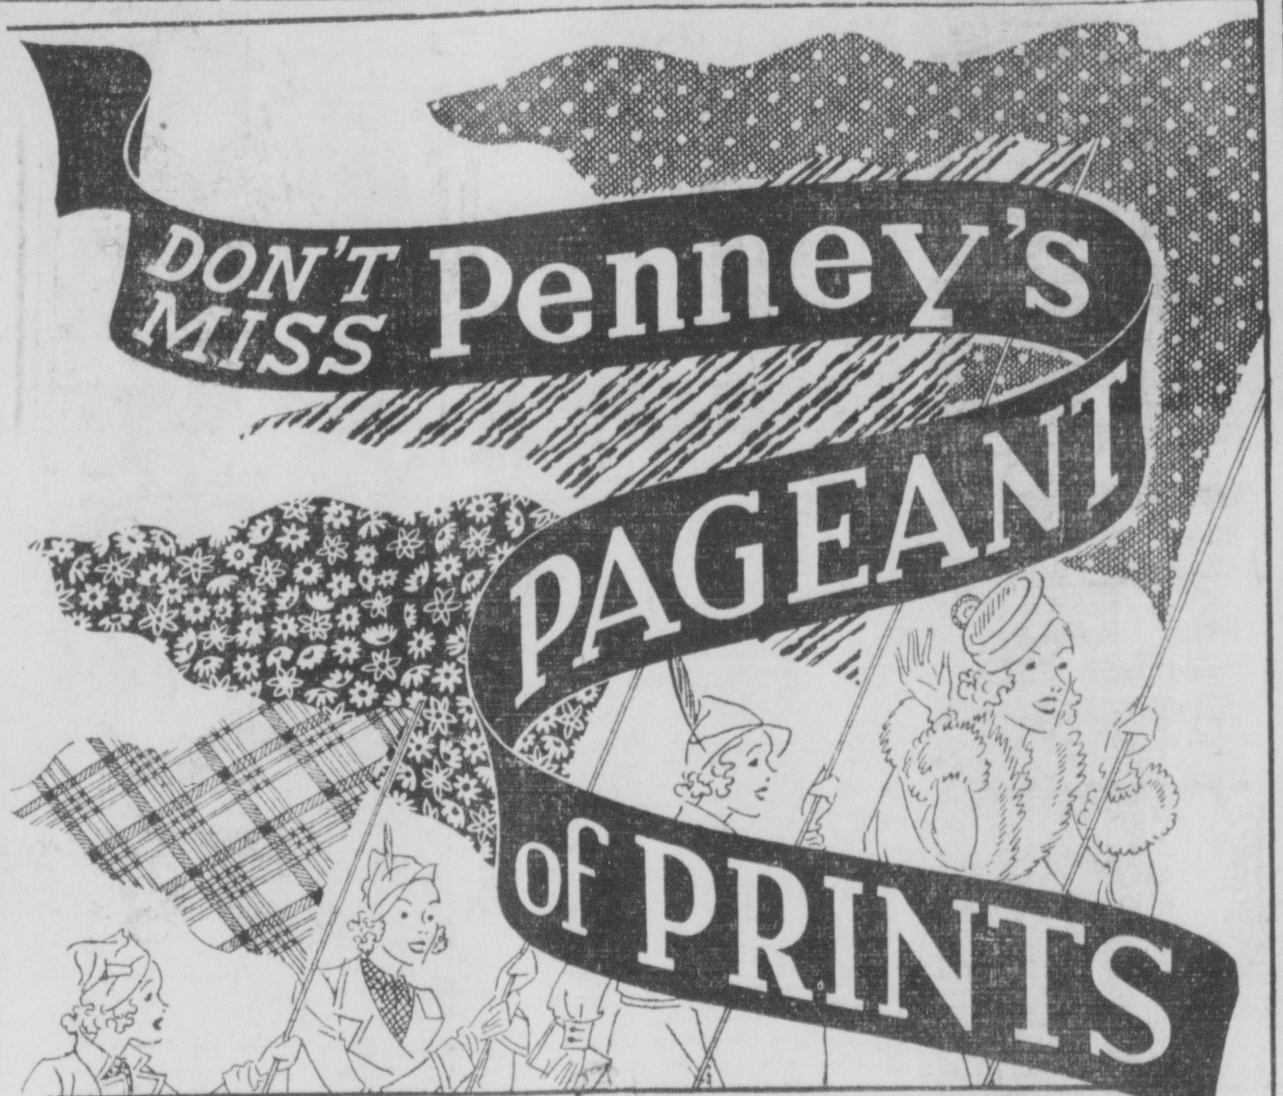

The result is that while Carter—by right of seniority—is still chairman he no longer controls the subcommittee.

So now both in the subcommittee, the Administration now has the votes to call the tune.

NEEDED LEGISLATION

MOTORISTS of Ohio are much interested in pending legislation provided that all drivers of motor vehicles be required to have a license from the state, without which they will be forbidden to drive. Ohio has long needed this type of motor traffic regulation and it seems that at last we are to have it.

Applicants for license must pass an examination to determine whether they are mentally and physically fit and of good moral character. It is presumed that if such a law is properly enforced the highways will be freed of one of the greatest menaces to life and property.

The responsible and morally unfit driver of motor vehicles. Under present regulations, a man who operates a steam engine in industry must pass an examination as to his physical and mechanical qualifications as a measure of safety to the public in general, yet there are no restrictions placed on motor vehicle drivers. Anyone may get behind the steering wheel of his own car or a borrowed car and take to the state's busy highways no matter if he be deaf, dumb, blind, physically and mentally deficient, without anyone questioning his right or his ability to drive. It would be no hardship for capable individuals to procure a driver's license or permit and the inefficient or incapable would be weeded out in the licensing process.

In many adjoining and nearby states all operators of motor vehicles must have a permit to drive. In cases of traffic mishaps the first thing "the law" says is "Let's take a look at your driver's license." If you have one, well and good. If you don't—that's another story.

In our opinion, some sort of a driver's license law is most necessary for the promotion of safety and the reduction of traffic hazards.

USES OF ANTARTICIA

PERSONS who don't like the cold weather and who would just as soon stay at home anyhow have inquired, in the manner peculiar to the provincial and the reactionary, what, if any, is the use of Admiral Byrd's 200,000 square miles of Antarctica, recently annexed to the United States for the greater glory of our empire. The inquiry apparently has been delivered with such force that it has penetrated to the good admiral in his distant outpost and, through the New York Times, he has attempted to answer it.

It seems that there are 22 uses of the discovery, and that the geographical use is only one of them. Among the other subjects being studied by the hardy pioneers of Marie Byrd Land, are these, as well:

Astronomy, meteorology, physical oceanography, vertebrate and invertebrate zoology, mammalogy, physiology, glaciology, stratigraphy, petrography, paleontology, tectonic and economic geology, geophysics, physical geography, cartography, physical and terrestrial magnetism, bacteriology and botany.

To them, as suggested the other day by an Englishman in Australia, might be added the potentialities of the new territory as a summer resort, abounding in winter sports. For all the uses to which the land may be put considerate persons will be thankful. They would hate to think that Admiral Byrd and his stout company spent so long a time in so frigid a place for nothing.

HORRIBLE EXAMPLE

RANKLIN D. Roosevelt, Jr., has reached a belated decision. He says he will not again be seen in a court room on a charge arising from his use of his automobile. This is good news for the traveling public. Young Roosevelt is no less a menace to safety as the son of the president of the United States than he would be as the son of the town crier of Painted Post, Nevada.

During the last two and a half years he has been arrested four times for speeding. Last March he struck a sixty-year-old woman in Boston. In April he was fined $20 for having out-of-the-state plates on an automobile without permission of the state authorities. On New Year's morning, at Wayne, Pa., his car skidded and struck another car. In Orange, Conn., last week he was fined $10 and costs on a speeding charge.

The record establishes the fact that young Roosevelt belongs to that reckless and irresponsible class of motorists who should be denied the use of the highways. Wrecked cars and sudden death lie in their wake. Unless he adheres to his determination to reform, his license should be revoked.

Only 5,000 Americans competed in the contest for the biggest liar in the United States, a remarkably small field, all things considered.

A deb, whose coming out used to run as high as $80,000, can be launched this winter for $5,000, making it practically a hard times social.

It is often through circuitous ways that justice scores at least an approach to a triumph. Shelbyville, Tenn., mobs burned the court house a short time ago and now have to pay for a new one.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Nine Stoutsville citizens were guests at a meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce. Improvement of the Circleville-Stoutsville road was among the important topics discussed.

The grocery store of H. O. Eveland, S. Court-st., was burglarized and large quantities of merchandise stolen.

Frank S. Gordon, secretary of the Forest Cemetery association, reported that 8,040 interments had been made. The cemetery had its first interment in July, 1858. The association was organized July 30, 1887. The first interment was Mrs. Charles Darst.

18 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Wolf, former residents of Stoutsville, died within a few hours of each other in New Carlisle, Pa., their deaths being due to influenza. Burial was made at Stoutsville.

Noah Devault died at his home in Laurelville within a few hours after being kicked by a horse.

A fox drive covering 40 square miles and centering at Tarleton netted three foxes, many animals escaping through the lines. Two thousand men took part in the chase. One pelt sold for $134.

25 YEARS AGO

Pickaway Centennial association selected members of a large number of committees to complete plans for the celebration October 2, 3, 4 and 5, followed by the annual Pumpkin show.

The Men's Social club of the Methodist church entertained with a ground hog supper in the social rooms of the new church.

Seventy-one applicants took the examinations for census enumerators at the court house. Ten of the number were women.

Little Sister

by MARGARET WIDDEMER

CHAPTER 34

ADDISON WAS tired and panting by the time Leila had guided him to Gaetano's little shop.

"I don't quite know what you plan doing," she said.

"Make Bet stop, of course," he said, and she remembered that so far he had seen little but Bet's docile side. She agreed with him in her heart that the less Bet was comrades with Gaetano the better. But she expected little from this sort of thing. Or perhaps, but with this money tangle it wouldn't do much good—perhaps Bet and Addison might break up over Gaetano. . . . Perhaps Orton on that case would know how to get Aunt Minnie's money back. Wasn't there something called "undue influence" or couldn't some appeal be made to his father?

Unwitting of these dark ideas against him, Addison looked up at her with the trustful expression of a dog who wants to be told where to run next.

"What . . . what would you advise me to say to Bet?" he asked wistfully, drawing a handkerchief across his flushed forehead and stopping for breath.

"I have been trying to find out what to say to Bet for a good many years," said her sister dryly. "So far nothing has been much use." She couldn't help, suddenly, being sorry for him. There was a sort of lost-dogness about him after all under his stiff assertive little ways; she began to see why Aunt Minnie was mothering him. At least he wasn't a deliberate villain. . . . "Here's the shop."

They went in, rather hesitantly. For a moment the change from the sharp bright April weather to the darkness of the place made Leila unable to see much of anything except the two shoe-shining throngs. Then she made out that the place was empty. On one side, on the little counter, lay Bet's unmistakable scuffed black ties among a litter of other shoes. But not a word was said.

Then an odd silence was broken by a woman's shrill voice; and Leila, to her relief, heard Bet's voice also, trying to talk her down. Gaetano's accented bass broke in from time to time.

Well, if there was another woman there, at least Bet couldn't be flattered with Gaetano. Leila walked to the door behind which were Gaetano's living quarters, and pushed it open.

Bet was there, all right. But she was not discussing anything whatever with Gaetano. Instead, she was penned in a corner by the oak rack; Gaetano, swarthy, smugged, darkly, plumply beautiful, was leaning against the wall with an expression of partly uneasy and partly complacent. The person doing the penning was an Italian woman who, before she put on weight, had been pretty, and was probably 25 or so, because she looked 30 by American standards. She was talking shrilly, volubly. Addison stepped back and stared, but Leila had practice in this. After all, she had had practice.

"I am looking for my sister," she said quietly, but in a voice which carried. "Betty, as you seem to have left your ties to be mended, I think you'd better come home. And you probably left the cap turned on."

"What . . . what would you advise me to say to Bet?"

Bet, against the wall, looked relieved. "All right," she said meekly. The Italian woman turned around to Leila. "She will not go so fast," she said furiously. "I have more to say to her!"

"Just what does this mean?" said Leila, as sternly as she could manage. The two Italians responded mechanically to the note of authority.

"My wife is a crazy idiot," said Gaetano very crossly. "This was something new," and also it explained. Gaetano had never mentioned his possession of a wife before. . . . But what had Bet been doing?

"I'm not a crazy idiot," said Mrs. Gaetano. "I am a woman who knows about men. And if I had known about Gaetano a little sooner I would never have stayed in New York helping my sister, because Gaetano said he hadn't money enough to look after me yet. But I have heard. They say he minks love to everybody."

"You talked about love, and sure enough, this first morning I come here is this girl, and they are talking together as if they'd known each other since they were babies. And he's holding her hand—"

"I was telling him I was in love with another man," said Bet shrilly, with another burst of love. "I heard you. I don't believe in no other man," said the practical Mrs. Gaetano. "I heard about you, and about the girl in the candy store."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Does the Mississippi Flow Up Hill? Every once in a while some bright pupil in the geography class tries to stump the teacher by asking if the Mississippi river really does flow up hill. Here is the answer:

The question is based upon the idea that "up" is away from the center of the earth and "down" is toward it. If these were the only meanings of the words then it could be said that the river does flow up hill, for the polar radius of the earth is about 13 miles shorter than the equatorial radius, and as the river extends over eighteen degrees of latitude its proper proportion of this difference amounts to about four miles, the river's source being that much nearer the center of the earth than its mouth.

But motion "up and down" on the earth's surface, properly defined, refers to movements against the attraction of gravity or to those acting with it. Water always seeks its own level and the water of the Mississippi is no exception.

In order to reach the Gulf of Mexico, the river must flow down hill, in order to reach the Gulf of Mexico.

29,256 in Truck Sales
4,378 in Car Sales
33,634 TOTAL LEAD

Recent Predictions that Chevrolet would be returned the leader in 1934 passenger car registrations as well as commercial car titling were confirmed February 1 when final returns for the year were completed. These returns were compiled by the R. L. Polk & Co.

IN view of the late start which Chevrolet suffered in 1934 due to labor troubles and other delays, the company was unable to overcome the Ford lead in the passenger car field until the last month of the year, although the combined car and truck sales by Chevrolet has exceeded the Ford combined total some months earlier.

DURING December Chevrolet completely wiped out the Ford lead by registering 25,741 against Ford's 14,056 and topped the lead for the entire year in the passenger car field by a margin of 4378 units. In combined passenger car and truck sales Chevrolet piled up a total of 692,440 against Ford's 658,806 giving a margin in favor of Chevrolet of 33,634 cars and trucks.

BEARDED FIVE PROVES "DUD"

Only One Bewhiskered Player On Team As Large Crowd Watches Contest

The House of David brought a nondescript quintet to Circleville Monday evening to combat the Athletic club but at that lost by only 31-28.

The team was by far the worst House of David aggregation ever put on the local court. A wreck Sunday night after a game in Indiana was blamed. Only one member of the regular team, Machek, who played forward, was in the lineup. The others could play some basketball, especially Brown, No. 5, a forward, who was high point man. He was reputed to have been an all-state man in Kentucky last year.

The game, although fairly close, was disappointing to the large crowd which witnessed it. The crowd was the best of the year.

RALLY AT CLOSE

The Club led through practically all the game after the first period which ended 8-7 for the invaders. The local outfit with Eve Merriman leading the scoring took a 15-10 margin at the half which was increased to 27-18 at the three-quarter pole. The pseudo House of David team rallied in the final period to bring the score too close for comfort but Carl Purcell and Eve Merriman dropped goals through the hoop to clinch the ball game.

The ball handling of Machek was outstanding and many wondered just what would have happened had all five of the bearded boys been here. A couple of years ago the House of David gave the Club a nice going over.

Barnes and Merriman topped the Club scorers with 12 and nine, respectively, while Brown, whose right name was probably Olechewski or something of that sort, tallied 15.

Johnny Heiskell worked the game.

COUNTY FARMER BAGS $2 CROW

W. B. Grabill of near Darbyville today possessed $2 in prize money and the added distinction of killing the first prize crow in the state conservation division's statewide crow-killing campaign.

The bird was brought down by the Pickaway-co farmer bore a band No. 49-C. The bird had been numbered and released through the division of conservation here as one of a flock of tagged birds.

The bands are worth from $1 to $25 when returned to the conservation department. Grabill was the first to bring down one of the prize birds and he redeemed the tag at the conservation office here.

RECORD CROWD TO SEE CHILlicothe MEET WATERLOO 5

Chillicothe high school gymnasium is expected to be sold out Friday evening when the Waterloo Wonder team plays the varsity there. It is reported that all available seats have been sold.

Waterloo easily defeated Ashville a couple of weeks ago and many from here had hoped to see the Wonders in action against a stronger team. Chillicothe, beaten 17-1 by Greenfield last week, will be another victim of the Waterloo club.

BISHOPS FACE MIAMI'S FIVE

Hope to Add to Lead; Detrick Confident After Xavier Defeat

By Gilson Wright

DELAWARE, Feb. 5.—Further fireworks will be displayed in Buckeye conference basketball this week when the second round of play begins Wednesday night.

At that time Ohio Wesleyan, the undefeated leader, will attempt to increase its margin by defeating Miami in a game scheduled at Edwinds gymnasium, Delaware. On the same night Marshall will travel to Athens to meet Ohio university.

Two more games that will count in the standings are on the card for Saturday night when Ohio Wesleyan will meet Marshall at Huntington, W. Va., and Cincinnati will play Miami at Oxford.

Xavier's 29 to 26 victory over Ohio Wesleyan broke the Bishops' winning streak which had extended to nine games, but in the opinion of Coach Ray Detrick the loss will help Ohio Wesleyan in its coming Buckeye conference games.

"A winning streak hurts a team because it plays under pressure. When the pressure is lifted, the boys can relax and play their usual game," Detrick said Tuesday. "I would rather lose a non-conference game than one that counts in the final championship ratings."

Conference basketball fans are keeping an eye on the coming return game between Cincinnati, now in second place, and Ohio at Athens next Tuesday night, Feb. 12. Cincinnati won on its own floor, 43 to 28. Another Cincinnati victory would kill Ohio's championship hopes, while an Ohio win would do no good to Cincinnati's chances.

Present standings:

TEAMS	W	L	Pct
Ohio Wesleyan	4	0	1.000
Cincinnati	3	1	.750
Ohio	2	2	.500
Marshall	0	3	.000
Miami	0	3	.000

MEET IN WEST

BERKELEY, Cal., Feb. 5.—The National Collegiate Athletic association track and field championships will be held at Edwards field at the University of California in June. It was announced today.

William Monahan, graduate manager, declared that California already has accepted an invitation to hold the meet here.

The invitation was tendered some time ago by Major John L. Griffith, N. C. A. A. athletic commissioner.

A definite date for the championships remains to be set. Two dates are being considered, the one to be made between June 11, 15 and June 21, 22.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

GRADUALLY SLIPPING

The old C. A. C. team, which defeated some of the best basketball aggregations in Ohio, is just about shot—Dick Robinson is through.

Judy Gordon admitted Monday evening that it was his last game. George Vlerhome is ill and will probably play no more basketball. Art Steele is making a slow recovery from pneumonia and Boyce Parks is on the downgrade. All have played mighty good basketball for a long while but, rather time is gradually creeping up. Eve Merriman is the only member of the aggregation which played seven, eight and nine years ago who now seems able to play up to the form he showed then, and he has lost a lot of speed on the defense.

"SCHOOL BOOSTER"

The following letter was received at the sports desk this morning from a writer who terms himself "A sports and school booster":

"There are no activities for our high school youths in the summer. You older folks practically monopolize 'munch' ball. The boys have nothing but cigarette smoking and other such poor pastime equipment. Some high school youths are trying to organize a 'hard' baseball team at school this spring. Many boys are interested in it and we have fine material for the sport."

"Maybe the board of education and a local club might be interested. How about it? It would be one of the best things that would have happened around here in a long while."

Big baseball peevess from little wisecracks grow. And pennants sometimes depend more on peace than base hits. Also, it takes only a little wrench to wreck a fine baseball machine.

A little difference between Manager Bill Terry and Pitcher Carl Hubbell undoubtedly helped to halt the Giants in their march toward the National league flag. The success this year of the Cleveland Indians, picked by many to win the American league pennant, may hang upon friendly relations between Manager Walter Johnson and the club's pitchers, notably Oral Hildebrand.

How to Pitch to Ruth. It will be remembered that the Big Train and the combative young slabster from Indiana became involved in a battle last year finally led to Hildy's suspension for insubordination. The difference all started innocently enough.

Hildebrand was pitching to a certain batsman in a way Walter did not like. The Big Train, a student of big league batters for 30 years, felt qualified to correct the recruit's method. When Hildebrand returned to the bench Johnson talked to him about it.

The youngster talked right back to the boss, and had the last word which, I am told, was:

"And suppose Babe Ruth is up there and you have three and two on him. How do you pitch to him over the plate, or under it?"

The serious Johnson reddened, and it is reported the "mad" between the two started right there. Hubbell and Terry were peevish at each other because the badly overworked Hubbell told a baseball writer he was tired of working every day, and Terry commented: "This is a poor time for him to get tired."

PANTHERS VICTORS OVER TARTLTON FIVE

A comedy of misplays, poor officiating and what-not featured the game between the Pickaway Panthers and Tartlton All-Stars, a preliminary Monday evening. Pickaway finally won 9-7.

The game showed plainly what can happen after good basketball players are out of practice a couple of years. Many of the names in the two lineups were outstanding in high school circles a couple of years ago, but they were short of wind, had lost their eyes for the basket, etc.

OHIOANS FAIL TO KEEP LEAD

Purdue Comes From Behind In Last Minute to Win 42-41 Thriller

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 5.—Ohio State university's surprising cage team blew a 15 point lead it held at halftime to go down to a 42-41 defeat at the hands of Purdue, today Big Ten leader.

The Buckeyes displayed a surprising attack in the first half to score 32 points but Bob Kessler, forward, led a spirited attack in the second half to slash the lead, later to tie and then to permit, Downey, a guard, to score a free throw to win the ball game in the last minute.

Ohio has now won four games and lost three.

Loss of Red Wilson, high scoring forward, and Bill Beltner, captain and guard, on personal fouls hurt the Buckeye chances for victory.

Wilson scored 13 points. Whitlinger counted 10 and Earl Thomas, at center, got nine while Kessler, Purdue flash who was called upon to come through when Norm Cotton, high scoring co-captain, was stopped, tallied 20 points.

Minnesota had too many guns for Chicago and despite Bill Haarlow's 15 points won 35-26 at Minneapolis, Monday evening.

EMERY CLUB LOSES FAST 18-17 FRAY

A left-handed negro named Evans proved a pain in the neck to the Emery club in a preliminary Monday evening when the South A. C. Columbus, won in a fast and interesting 18-17 game.

Evans shot from any position and with either hand to score 10 of his team's 18 points.

Friece and Frank did most of the Emery club scoring with seven and six.

SCHMIDT BEGINS INDOOR PRACTICE

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—Training his squad for the far-distant 1935 football season, Coach Francis Schmidt of Ohio State university today had started indoor practice for the football squad.

The winter drills, held in the gymnasium, will continue for four weeks and give way to outdoor spring practice for a six-week period starting early in March.

An innovation on the Buck campus, the winter drills are being staged to teach rudiments of the game. Most of the lettermen of last year's squad were kept from the sessions by participation in other sports or scholastic examinations.

Capt. Gomer Jones and Trevor Rees, end, were among those who turned out, however. Promising freshman gridlers who answered the call included Warren Christinger, Springfield and Tom Monahan of Lotain, a brother of former Captain Regis Monahan.

STAGG AIDS SON IN PLEA FOR JOB

KENT, Feb. 5.—Alonzo Stagg, veteran football coach, was to come to Kent today to confer with officials of Kent State college concerning his son's chances of obtaining the "wide-open" job of chief grid mentor at the school.

Alonzo Jr., one of 40 candidates for the Kent position, formerly was a star quarterback on the University of Chicago eleven.

BANK REPORTS SHOW CONFIDENCE

SQUIRE FILES FIRST REPORT

Steady Increase In Volume of Business During 1934 is Disclosed

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—Indisputable evidence that Ohio's banks have recaptured the public confidence, that general business conditions are definitely improved and that the economic outlook for 1935 is decidedly reassuring is indicated by the state bank call reports of Dec. 31, 1934. Samuel H. Squire, new superintendent of banks of Ohio, declared in his first official statement issued today.

Throughout 1934, Squire said, the resources and deposits of Ohio's banks rose steadily in volume, showing substantial gains for the first time in more than five years. The scope and value of their banking service increased appreciably during the past year and a better understanding of banks and their purposes has been effected, he said. Squire added that stimulation in business has enhanced banking stabilization.

"Under readjustments made since the national bank holiday of 1933, the people have full faith that funds deposited in banks are absolutely safe and they unhesitatingly commit their money to the care of these institutions," Squire said. "Ohio's banks, conservatively managed, are giving serious consideration to the business problems of the day with the intention of doing everything possible to aid in their solution."

Total resources of all banks under state supervision, 466 in number, 13 being unlicensed banks, on Dec. 31, 1934, were $1,157,587,466, an increase of $32,259,391, since the call of Oct. 2, 1934, and an increase of $96,952,500 since Dec. 30, 1933.

Total deposits of these banks on Dec. 31, 1934, were $965,041,004, an increase of $34,540,439 since Oct. 2, 1934, and an increase of $80,453,423 since Dec. 30, 1933.

Classified, the totals reported for deposits of all state banks were:

Individual deposits, $277,501,043, increases of $28,708,913 and $54,509,087, respectively; savings deposits, $498,645,796, increases of $14,784,154 and $41,417,874 respectively; time certificates, $48,613,595, decreases of $9,859 and $18,090,184 respectively; "all other deposits," $140,280,570, a decrease of $8,942,769 since Oct. 2, 1934 and an increase of $12,616,646 since Dec. 30, 1933.

The reduction in time certificates of deposit, Squire said, may be explained to a material extent by the transfer of such deposits to other deposit accounts.

Loans and discounts totaled $475,970,660, decreases of $7,508,227 and $64,872,571 respectively. Cash and reserve totaled $179,316,045, increases of $17,020,527 and $40,049,848 respectively. Combined capital totaled $64,282,395, a decrease of $115,000 since Oct. 2, 1934, and a decrease of $2,466,305 since Dec. 30, 1933. The capital stock decrease noted is due to the fact there were 37 fewer banks at the close of 1934 than at the beginning of the year.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—Governor Davey said again today that Francis Poulson is the only man in Ohio who can "deliver a job." The governor warned Ohioans who have been paying money to some persons who claim they control and can obtain positions.

GOOD PROGRAM AT PINELAWN FARM

More than 100 poultrymen from Pickaway and adjoining counties enjoyed an interesting program at a chick raising school at Pinelawn Poultry Farm, Monday night, as guests of the management. The school was arranged by George Bowers, owner of the farm, for the benefit of the 1935 patrons of the hatchery.

The program included an inspection of the plant, an explanation of the purpose of the school by Mr. Bowers, and a splendid musical program by W. H. Hudson, assistant manager. Addresses were made by G. S. Vickers, field manager of the Ohio Poultry Improvement association; E. Grossman, of Grove City; Dr. J. T. Burris, of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, Reynoldsburg; and E. W. Millar, Ashville, followed by a round-table discussion on topics of interest to poultry raisers.

3 JAILED FOR CHICKEN THEFT

Frank Jester, 21, Route 1, Williamsport, Irvin Colburn, R. F. D., Williamsport, and Schuyler Jester, 18, Chillicothe, Route 1, are being held in the Ross-co jail for investigation in connection with alleged theft of 30 chickens from the Clarence Norris place, near Pennyroyal, Ross-co., Saturday night. The men were arrested by Sheriff Vincent and Deputy Lowery Sunday afternoon after Frank Jester sold seven chickens at Williamsport.

Colburn claims the chickens sold belonged to him and that others at his place are his property and are not part of the Norris flock. However, Sheriff Vincent and Deputy Lowery will attempt to prove the home locality of the chickens by taking them to the neighborhood adjoining the hen house. If the chickens go to roost in the accustomed place for the Norris flock, charges may result against the three men.

Frank Jester and Colburn were arrested at Colburn's place. Schuyler Jester was arrested at the Norris farm, in the Pennyroyal neighborhood.

PREACHER'S SON WINS OHIO HONOR

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—David Hingworth, 17-year-old son of a Johnstown pastor, today had won the Ohio Prince of Peace contest and a four year scholarship. A $200 cash award also went to Hingworth. The final contest of the state wide competition was held at the Ohio Pastors' convention Monday. Second place went to Ann Harding, 16, Bellefontaine. A $100 cash award and two-year scholarship went to Miss Harding.

AMRINE QUILTS

Mrs. Allman on January 29, which said in part:

"We have received a request from the governor's office for the following information concerning every employee in your institution, including yourself: Name, home, address, position, salary, politics, length of service, civil service—if or no."

According to Amrine, he sent the requested information to Mrs. Allman with the exception of the notations of the politics of the employees on the farm. In his letter to the welfare director, he said:

"Have omitted the politics of all except myself as all are under civil service and I have never considered politics in hiring or discharging anyone."

Received Second Note

He claimed he received still another letter from Mrs. Allman, which read in part:

"With reference to the report, I regret that it is necessary for me to return it to you inasmuch as the first item on the list, politics, was not filled out."

Although Amrine himself is under civil service, as are the 80 guards under his jurisdiction, he placed his letter of resignation in the mails and it should have reached Mrs. Allman today, he said.

Amrine had been an employee in the state's penal system since 1902. He started as a teacher at Mansfield reformatory, two years before Warden Thomas. After Thomas was appointed as warden by former Governor Cox, he selected Amrine as a deputy warden in charge of the prison farm.

Later, in 1925, when the farm was made a separate institution, Amrine was given the post of superintendent at the behest of former Governor A. V. Donahey.

CHEVROLET FIRST IN REGISTRATION

Passenger and commercial car registrations for the year 1934, which have just been compiled place Chevrolet at the top of the list, leading Ford in the final count by a margin of 33,634 cars.

These returns, compiled by R. L. Polk & Co., show new passenger car registrations in the United States during 1934 reached a total of 1,888,557 as compared with 1,493,794 in 1933, and truck registrations to the total of 493,941 as compared with 245,869 in 1933.

Of the passenger cars registered, Chevrolet leads with 543,906; Ford second with 530,528; Plymouth third with 302,557.

In the combined passenger car and truck sales for the year Chevrolet piled up a total of 692,440 against Ford's 658,806, giving a margin in favor of Chevrolet of 33,634 cars and trucks.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout troop No. 3 held its weekly meeting at Memorial hall, Friday. The meeting opened with the flag service. We chose our favorite songs to sing followed by a game.

"The Happy Hunters" patrol gave a short program for the rest of the troop, which was enjoyed and appreciated by all. We then made more plans for our Valentine party to be held sometime near Valentine's Day. The decorating committee will be Betty Betz, Norma Jean Brown and Sara Mac Delong.

The meeting closed with taps and the radio handclasp.

GAIL DAUENHAUER, Scribe.

Girl Scout troop No. 4 held its regular meeting Friday afternoon, in the basement of the Presbyterian church. An interesting handicraft was taken up. Different colored papers pasted on black jars were found very effective. We tried a new song called "Camels" and had quite a time with the two parts.

During the business part of the meeting, the motion was made and passed to buy the Second Class badges with money from our treasury. A game, Human Croquet, was enjoyed by all. In patrol corners we worked more on the handicraft. We closed with the friendship circle and taps.

In Kennamer Case

Preston Cochran

An important witness in the trial of Phil Kennamer, of Tulsa, Okla., which begins at Pawnee, Okla., for the slaying of John Gorrell, Feb. 11, is Preston Cochran, above son of an oil company attorney. The state expects Cochran to testify that Kennamer talked with him concerning plans for extortion plots and easy money.

Washington Merry-go-round

but there was no change in their personal relations.

What these two struggles and more than two decades of Senate association failed to accomplish, last week's Court fight brought about.

Faced with a situation in which they seemed leaders of a lost cause, the two battle-scarred warriors dropped their old feud and locked arms.

A surprised Senate saw them holding frequent conferences and closely attending one another's rhetorical attacks.

And when the fight was over they rushed into a warm embrace, generously attributing to the other chief credit for the unexpected victory.

Checked

Senator Carter Glass's undercover feud with the Administration over the appointment of Marriner S. Eccles as Governor of the Federal Reserve Board is getting interesting.

The aged Virginia die-hard strongly disapproves of the young, liberal Utahman. And when the session opened Glass quietly approached several Republican members of the Senate Banking Committee, among them Jim Couzens, on the proposition of joining him in a fight against Eccles' confirmation.

But Glass got no comfort from them.

They made it clear they had no intention of helping him pull his chestnuts out of the fire.

Carter then resorted to another maneuver.

"When Eccles' name came before the Banking Committee he had it referred to a subcommittee of which he is chairman. With him on this committee were Senators Bulkeley, Ohio, and McAdoo, California, both Old Guards."

The situation seemed completely in Carter's hands.

He was in a position to hold up action on the appointment and by keeping Eccles and the Administration in the uneasy seat use their discomfiture as a club to oppose their forthcoming bill to strengthen on the Government's control over the Federal Reserve System.

But Carter did not reckon with Senator Jimmy Byrnes.

That wily South Carolinian, the President's Senatorial liaison man, is also a member of the Banking Committee and headed a subcommittee.

When Carter seized control of

Eccles' appointment, Jimmy quietly had his own subcommittee abolished and he and its Administration supporters made members of Carter's group.

The result is that while Carter—by right of seniority—is still chairman he no longer controls the subcommittee.

So now both in the subcommittee, the Administration now has the votes to call the tune.
